Immediately before beginning to play, start a stopwatch discretely.

This watch should not be visible to the audience, and should not be stopped until the performer has finished playing.

Play the preceding phrase in an expressively flat, staccato, and amateurish style.

Repeat until only a single audience member, or small unit of members sitting together remain.

Present this person or people with the certificate on the following page, replacing the first blank with the member(s) name(s), and the second with the duration of the performance in hour:minute:second format.

The performer may pre-print several copies of the certificate in case a small group remains, or may use one certificate for a group, adding as many names as possible to the first line.

Certificate of Achievement

This certificate hereby acknowledges that

managed to sit through _____ of what will (hopefully)

be the most exceptionally boring and overlong performance they will ever have to endure

We commend you on your bravery
